The endless diversity of nature...

Dear Guests,

This summer, we're inviting you to join us in all kinds of outdoor activities. Start off in the area around Lenzerheide, or, should we say, Bikerheide (PAGE 4). There are trails for everyone here, for beginners and experts, leisure bikers and pros, couples and families, and for relaxation or thrills. Then explore the idyllic scenery around Klosters on foot. On two legs or four, you can all enjoy long walks on the Lecky Trail or the hike trails of the Prättigau valley, where "Off the leash!" is the order of the day (PAGE 14), because you don't have to keep your dog on the leash! Then, take a deep breath before climbing your first 4000 metre peak in Saas-Fee, accompanied by a professional mountaineer (PAGE 22). Your reward will be a stunning view that you'll never forget... Have we got you interested? Well then, head straight for our great Collection Deals (PAGES 28–31), to take advantage of some really fantastic offers. They can only be booked through the Collection magazine. If you can't see anything to suit you there, you'll find other interesting summer specials at the Sunstar hotels (PAGE 32).

We look forward to welcoming you to one of our 10 Sunstar hotels very soon and treating you to the Sunstar experience!

Lenzerheide • Going with the flow

Bikerheide on two wheels

The broad upland valley of Lenzerheide, with its idyllic, park-like scenery and Lake Heid glistening in the sunshine, offers perfect conditions for cycling and the "in" sport of mountain biking (MTB). Over the last few years, the region has steadily extended its network of trails and has become a popular bikers' El Dorado.

The Lenzerheide region offers bikers an astonishing range of different experiences, so everyone can get in the flow! The centrepiece is the Lenzerheide Bikepark. Radiating out from it are over 500 kilometres of sign-posted routes, while GPS data is available for routes covering more than 900 kilometres. They range from leisurely to challenging and you can ride them alone, as a couple or with all the family. And incidentally, they're also great for e-bikers.

How about starting with a nice easy ride?

In pleasant sunshine and comfortable temperatures, you flow serenely along forest tracks and unsurfaced roads, with gentle climbs and relaxing descents. Every so often, you can stop for a refreshing break to catch your breath, sitting on a bench with amazing views of the surrounding mountains. Your route takes you past a readymade barbecue site – it must be time to stop for a picnic! Then, with fresh strength, you continue up a slight incline back to Lenzerheide. What fun!

If you're a more energetic pedaller, try a route that starts with a taxing uphill section so that you'll soon be sweating. On you go, from alp to alp, over hill and dale. And, of course, "alp" does not refer just to the mountains but also to the various alpine huts that provide refreshments for hungry bikers. The ride culminates with a sensational downhill stretch offering outstanding views of the whole valley. Then how about finishing off with a refreshing dip in Lake Heid?

“Narrow trails, uphill and down dale, rough and smooth, with some tricky bends.”

That pretty much sums up an exciting MTB trail. Effortless biking doesn't just require balance, flexibility and trust in your bike – the technique, moves and tricks all have to be regularly practised and worked on. The Lenzerheide Bikepark is the perfect place for that. The popular playground for beginners and pros alike is located between the Scharmoin middle station and the Rothorn valley station and offers five tempting "lines" (now we're getting into biking jargon...):

- The FLOWline (blue) is for beginners or for warming up, and is suitable for newcomers to the sport and families. With its little jumps and smooth curves, it's the ideal place to practise the basics.
- The PRIMEline (red) is for adrenaline junkies with average to good riding abilities, because it offers speed, flow and "airtime".
- On the SHOREline (red) you get down to business with "north shores" (obstacles) and bigger drops.
- The STRAIGHTline (black) is "the Beast", a challenge for any rider!
- The STYLEline (black) is the one for airtime and style (enhancing your riding with tricks). Jumps of all kinds lie in wait for "whippers" (who go sideways over a jump), no-handers and the like.

“Skill Centre” for beginners and pros

The training circuit by the Rothorn valley station is a popular meeting place for anyone who wants to hone their technique and have a go at jumps, drops, north shores, wall rides and banked turns.

Biking fun for young and old.

For the younger ones, as well as the Flow line and the Skill Centre, there's also the Kids' Bike League: at the Lenzerheide Bike School, they are taught in a fun way all about biking and how to move, in classes for three levels of ability. Another highlight is the pump track that opened in the village in August 2019. The asphalted wave circuit gives kids, especially, loads of exercise and fun. By making rhythmic movements as they go over the waves, they generate so much energy that the bike keeps moving without them having to pedal. But it's not just youngsters who love the new facility, experienced bikers can also work on new sequences there. And the best thing for our guests is that, because the pump track is right in front of the Sunstar hotel, you can watch all the energetic goings-on from our sunshine terrace or your balcony!

Investing for today and tomorrow – modern designs, bright colours and romantic details.

Once again, a great deal has been going on at the Sunstar hotels during the last autumn and winter. And we're happy to lift the veil on some new highlights that we have in store for you this summer.

Looking back.

Grisons. The team in Klosters is delighted with the 8 new Nova rooms that have been renovated on the 3rd floor, and last winter the beautiful rooms also went down very well with the guests who stayed there. The first phase of the new wellness area in Lenzerheide was successfully completed. Some new walls have already been built and the quiet area has been extended. We can hardly wait to show you the fully finished wellness area in the summer.

Bernese Oberland. Wengen has fitted new carpets in all rooms. In Grindelwald, there have been a lot of changes in some of the rooms. In autumn, 14 new Premium rooms, 8 Nova double rooms and 6 Nova single rooms were completely refurbished and crossed off the "to-do" list.

And what's going on down south? While you were busy zooming down the ski slopes in the winter, in Brissago 3 bathrooms were completely renovated including the plumbing, and the remaining balcony floors on the 2nd and 3rd storeys were replaced. In Piedmont, the new-look kitchen is gleaming after its refurbishment.

Looking ahead.

Four new family rooms are going to be created in Arosa in time for the summer season and we're sure they'll be equally popular with adults and children. And on the subject of new rooms, in Davos an incredible 42 rooms are being upgraded to Premium rooms and a further 3 new Suites created. In Piedmont, the conversion of the adjacent "Casa Pia" building has begun. By the spring of 2021, there will be an "osteria" here and 7 new rooms.

The bathrooms in the new Nova rooms feature a rain shower.

Cosiness and comfort combined with good design.

Our oldest employee

His 80th birthday party at the Sunstar Hotel Arosa featured not only cake and wine but also a nice poem:

"Peter Buri is 80 this year, give a cheer, give a cheer!

*Day in, day out he drives the bus,
and does more than that, without a fuss!*

He takes the money to the bank – Peter, you're the one we thank!

When our guests arrive at Arosa station, to the hotel he provides transportation.

*And when he takes kids to the cable car,
all the parents say "Peter's a star!"*

Now "All the best" to him we say, and hope he enjoys this special day!"

“Sunstar never stands still and is always coming up with new surprises.”

Yves Timonin and his partner Grit Schlutter have been managing the Sunstar hotel in Grindelwald since 2004. The couple started out as hosts at the hotel in Wengen in 2001. Hotel dog Jamiro also helps create a “pawesome” atmosphere.

Hotel Director, Regional Manager and Member of the Management Board: what are your primary responsibilities?

My main focus is on managing the wellness and conference hotel in Grindelwald, which has 400 beds. In my role as Regional Manager, I serve as line manager and sparring partner for the hotel directors in Wengen, Saas-Fee and Zermatt. I’m also the link with the Management Board.

How do you manage to juggle so many balls?

Well, ideally I’d have three hands! And without my partner Grit always by my side and my reliable team of senior staff, it would be hard to keep up with it all.

But perhaps having a private life is an alien concept?

Our free time is very limited, so Grit and I know we have to use it well. We try to spend it together if we possibly can. We relax outdoors with our dog, preferably by going out walking for hours.

How long have you had your hotel dog, and what has changed because of him?

We got Jesper first, eleven years ago, but unfortunately he died when he was only six years old. Not long after that, we got our Labrador, Jamiro, who is now five. Having a pet means taking responsibility for another life, and we have found that very enriching.

Where does Jamiro have his place and how do you look after him?

He spends his days in the back office where he has his basket. We reserve three hours to spend with him every day, which makes a healthy balance for us, too. Grit also takes him to “find and retrieve” exercise classes.

How do the hotel staff and guests respond to the dog?

Our staff like to have him around. If Jamiro goes away for a couple of days, they ask: “Where has our therapy dog gone?” Many guests react positively to him, and sometimes children come behind the Reception desk to stroke him. He is good for establishing closeness and communication. Of course, there are also some guests who aren’t so keen on dogs. Then we make sure that Jamiro isn’t too much in evidence.

About the guests: which countries do most of them come from?

Most of them come from Europe. But the Jungfrau region is also very popular with Asians. If I think back fifteen years, then it was mainly Japanese, but today a lot come from South-East Asia, and recently also from the Emirates. Things are also changing now, with a move away from Asians going on group tours and a growing trend for individual travel.

In what ways do the cultural differences between your guests become apparent and how do you deal with that?

One good example are kettles in the rooms: because people kept cooking noodle soup in them, we have had to do away with them. Instead we now have urns of hot water available in the communal areas for everyone to use. As Swiss hosts, we feel that it is our responsibility to inform our international guests about the cultural habits here.

What is the secret behind your many years of employment with Sunstar?

Sunstar never stands still, it is constantly developing operationally, creating new and exciting opportunities. Over the years, we have made numerous changes to our hotel and grown along with the company. We have also got to know lots of guests who are now regulars – so there’s a personal connection there. However, the pleasant working environment is also partly thanks to our teamwork with our colleagues. And we owe a big thank you to the Board of Directors for their unfailing confidence in us. But of course, the icing on the cake is the idyllic scenery here in the Bernese Oberland!

Off the leash for a 4-star dog's life

Our four-legged hotel guest Einstein von Vierbein charms everyone because he is not only affectionate and playful but also very smart. Here, he generously gives us an insight into his most intimate thoughts during his 4-star visit to our hotel.

We have to conclude that “a dog’s life” now seems to be very different from how it used to be defined in the dictionary!

"Dorfstube" restaurant

You can't be serious?! You don't really expect me to be satisfied with just one of these tasty welcome treats?! After I was so good on the three-hour journey to get here?! And what am I saying, "good"? One could almost say that I was pawsitively a role model for four-legged SBB passengers.

Oh well, my friends. If it doesn't occur to you that I might need seconds, then I have no alternative but to go into my tried and tested drama queen routine: I stretch up to my full height, shift my weight on to my front legs and puff out my chest. Then it starts: to begin with, a tiny little woof performed piano, then I transition into crescendo, before reaching Forte-Bello® (my successful trademark for "barking at the top of my voice"). I follow it up with a pause for dramatic effect, backed up by an irresistible stare from my big soulful eyes.

A delicious welcome for four-legged friends.

Come on now, you two-legged twits, just give me another treat at long last. And if you'd be so good, another one for my charming pal Bernstein (my young cousin in 2nd grade, also a "von Vierbein", who knows how to wind everyone round his little paw with his amber-coloured eyes). My master and mistress, Markus and Manuela, look apologetically at the receptionist. That smart man not only seems to be on the ball professionally, but he also understands my language: with a sympathetic smile, he promptly conjures up two more snacks. I love it when my plan works! Satisfied, I make myself comfy by the Reception desk and wait patiently while we check in.

Every dog's dream.

As soon as they open the bedroom door, Markus and Manuela are virtually rooted to the spot, they're so stunned by the wonderful view from the balcony. I, on the other hand, am far more interested in the snuggly dog blanket and my food and drink bowl. In fact, I would never have dared to dream that a dog like me could ever be made so welcome and be so well looked after at a 4-star hotel. If I was one of the two-legged species, I would probably have tears in my eyes now, I'm so moved. And the best thing is that, this evening, Bernstein and I are even allowed into the "Dorfstube" restaurant at the Sunstar Hotel Klosters! Of course, I have to promise that under no circumstances will I repeat my Forte-Bello® performance from earlier on. But I certainly don't. Instead, I sit up and beg and impress the other guests with my good behaviour (is there perhaps another treat in it for me?).

Off the leash for a wonderful dog's life.

Oh what fun, there are so many places round here where I can be let off the leash! I leap around madly for sheer joy, roll on my back and run to my heart's content. Tomorrow we're going to do the Lecky Trail – a dog-friendly footpath that makes a great walk for dogs and humans. My two-legged parents can even go racing down the mountain on a scooter (and of course I can keep up with them quite easily *har-rumph*). Oh, yes! – and this winter it looks as if I'll even be able to join them on the cross-country skiing trail. The things these two-legged creatures think of... Sometimes even I, the four-legged genius, have to smile.

Did you know?

Your four-legged friends are welcome at all Sunstar hotels, but especially in Grindelwald and Klosters.

There they are given a special welcome treat and there will be a snuggly blanket and a food and drink bowl waiting in the room for them. They don't have to stay on the leash on the footpaths. In Klosters, there are even special areas of the restaurant for dog owners and their pets.

For more information see pages 35 + 36

Touch the sky in Valais.

Holidays. A time for new places and the wonderfully unexpected. But even though we have more and more opportunities, it's becoming harder and harder to find those undiscovered places and experiences. It's certainly by no means as easy and straightforward as it used to be.

Yesterday's insiders' secrets have become today's "in" places. It's partly thanks to Instagram and Facebook. Influencers and other would-be gurus tell us where the most beautiful and interesting places in the world are. Then hordes of people go there and feel that this makes them incredibly interesting themselves for a few hours. They turn on their cameras, send up their drones and take exactly the same unique picture, or make the same YouTube video, in the same place, as the one that made them go there in the first place. Then of course they post it online. And the next wave of people promptly comes along. And so it goes on. Been there, done that. It's not original, but it's the modern way.

Tom and Hilde don't want to be modern. They don't want to mingle with the crowds, they want a unique experience in the mountains. They come from Belgium. There are no mountains there. The highest peak is exactly 700 metres. And they had to cheat a bit and pile up stones on a mound to even get a 7 in front. Naturally, that's not good enough for our two alpine climbers. That's why they keep coming to the Swiss mountains. The wild and romantic valleys, the rocky canyons, the banks of compacted snow and the mountain-top crosses – these are the places they always seek out for their holidays.

Sunstar's "My first 4000 m peak" package at Saas-Fee appealed to them immediately. The key element is, of course, the mountain guide. That brings a big adventure within reach, even for lowlanders. Toni is a complete professional. You don't need to be told, you can see it just by watching him: every hand movement is just so, every hold is in the right place, deliberate and precise. On the first day, Tom and Hilde not only discuss the route with Toni but also do some practice and training with high-alpine equipment: carabiners, harnesses, ropes and crampons. What do you put on first, which strap goes where and what should the knot look like in the end? The guide knows all the answers and the "Belgian rope team" is quick on the uptake. By the end of this exciting day, crampons and ice axes have become familiar objects for them, too.

One more sleep. Tomorrow's the day. Let's hope the weather holds. Wisps of mist drift around the hotel. A sudden change of weather in the mountains is something nobody wants. But a bit of uncertainty is inevitable, after all, climbing a four-thousand-metre peak isn't a walk in the park, it's an adventure off the beaten track. Tom and Hilde are delighted.

Two four-thousand-metre peaks makes one eight-thousand-metre one! But let's take one thing at a time. The Valais, with over 40 four-thousand-metre peaks, is an undisputed El Dorado for climbers and anyone who wants to get up, up and away for their holidays. Following the success of their "My first 4000 m peak" package, Sunstar Hotels is now offering a second package: "My next 4000 m experience".

Anyway, as we said, one thing at a time: "My first 4000 m peak" is the Allalinhorn. It's an "easy" mountain, but at no less than 4027 metres, it's still pretty high! But don't worry, on the first day you don't get down to the nitty-gritty quite yet. First of all, an experienced mountain guide teaches you all about the equipment and technique. During the training, you practise moving about on snow and ice, attached to a rope. It's fun and not so hard after all! The second day is when you begin in earnest. The alarm goes off at 4.30 a.m., the crack of dawn. Then you start by going up a few hundred metres on the cable car. But when you reach the top station, there's no more cheating. Soon it's time to put your crampons on and put your muscles to work. The mountain guide has every-thing in hand. The route, the tempo, the weather. When you reach the ridge, first of all you take a break for breakfast. Then you tackle the last stage: the path to the top. One step at a time in air that's getting a bit thin. Then you've made it, you're on the top and you can almost touch the sky. Simply fantastic! And what can you say about the view! If you've never been up there, you have no idea, and if you've seen it, you know that it's indescribable.
